Five day Bootcamp

On

Big Data

From 12th Nov to 19th Nov, 2024

The Five-Day Bootcamp on Big Data from November 12th to November 19th 2024, organized by the Institution's Innovation Council in collaboration with the PG Department of Computer Science, successfully concluded on November 19, 2024. The bootcamp featured an engaging assessment that tested participants on key topics such as databases, Big Data, handling tools, NoSQL databases, and Natural Language Processing (NLP), all of which were covered during the hands-on training sessions. Throughout the event, students actively participated in practical exercises, creating databases and learning how to establish their connectivity. Dr. Sarwan Singh, Joint Director at NIELIT Ropar, led insightful lectures on Big Data, Data Science, and NLP, emphasizing their real-world applications. Dr. Jasvir Singh, Principal, commended the PG Department of Computer Science for organizing the event and encouraged them to continue offering such skill-oriented initiatives for the students' growth. The bootcamp was effectively coordinated by Prof. Tajinder Kaur and Prof. Paramjit Kaur, under the guidance of Dr. Surender Kumar, Head of the PG Department, and Dr. Gurpreet Kaur, President of IIC, with the support of the entire Computer Science faculty and staff, ensuring its success.

Objective: The objective of the Five-Day Bootcamp on Big Data was to equip participants with essential skills in Big Data, databases, NoSQL, and Natural Language Processing (NLP) through hands-on training and expert-led sessions..

Benefit: The benefits of the Five-Day Bootcamp on Big Data included gaining practical skills in Big Data tools, NoSQL databases, and NLP, along with expert guidance, career growth opportunities, and enhanced networking.
